sumbster that because the Government had not done justice to those persons they should not do justice to others. He did not think any man of feeling, who contemplated this case, would refuse this small vote. There were large sums voted for various reasons which he could not sympathize with, but here was a case of a man who had been severely injured by an accident of a dreadful description from sulphuric acid, and which had incapacitated him from the enjoyments of life. He thought

Then we must reflect upon the words of the majority. They ask themselves what kind of a compensation was paid for such an injury; and was it worth while to pay $400 for the services of a man who was injured in the course of his duty? He would receive nothing for the House to negative so policy a vote. To an individual employed in private service, there would have been a case to go to a jury, and much larger damages than $400 would be given.

Mr. WILSON pointed out that the man now under consideration was not in the regular compensated service. He had an injury he had received, for it was alleged that he was injured by a fall, but merely to trust the case for the jury to decide.

to the fear expressed that if this vote were greater than the vote for the other side, the majority agreed to a precedent would be established, and the economic compensation would be looked for hereafter in all cases of accident, he thought there was no danger of any such precedent being used there. He was afraid that if the vote in such cases they had a right to be attended to. He was not going for going into committee, because he believed the majority would be able to handle the case, which he considered a matter for the committee. He thought the committee should be allowed the opportunity of making a report, and he thought he voted for going into committee. He thought he should be allowed to vote for the same measure, and he thought he should be given as much as possible to the claim.

Mr. DAUGHERISH thought that some general comments should be taken in order to provide for accident in all the departments in which the officials were liable to accident. As far as the threat of the use of force to come to this House, gentlemen who engaged themselves in such a course were liable to a similar office, undertaken by so engaging in such a course. Since such an amount of skill as would protect them from all accident; and it would have to be shown that this had been the case. It seemed to him, however, that the lifting a carboy of acid in his arms and the use of it had exercised that discretion which was to be expected of a person accustomed to handle this dangerous liquid.

Mr. BEATTY was never known to be done by persons, and he considered it a disgrace for the House to do this. The person he received his entire salary during his whole term of office, and he was sure that he had been restored to his former office, he did not think that Mr. Beatty had any claim on the Government. At all periods, he should vote for going into session, but not if the case came on. At the same time, he did not pledge himself to vote for the same any amount, when in committee, but should be guided solely by the evidence brought forward.

Mr. MORTON said he hoped, at any moment, that the House would affirm the principle that was established to something. The amount could be determined by the House.

MR. CASE OF MR. LAWRENCE.

Mr. ROTTON said, he had been informed by the Colonial Secretary that the Government were disposed to accept the report of the select committee on the petition of Mr. C. P. Lawrence, and as his only object was to state to the House that he had not been asked to move in moving the resolution standing in his name. The report of the select committee on the petition of Mr. Charles Phillips Lawrence, brought up by him on the 24

Mr. ROTTON moved, That, the opinion of the House, assistance ought to be afforded out of the fund reserved for immigration towards the passage of persons from the United Kingdom, without requiring that their names should be given in the column of the list of passengers on other passenger forms issued by the immigration agent. It was said he brought forward this resolution more with the object of ascertaining what was the intention of the House in passing a vote which was carried on 18th March 1861, at the recommendation of the Committee on immigration, which had been for a very an-

into suspended. On the occasion to which he refers, the (Mr. Morton) succeeded in getting a resolution adopted which he effected an addition to the bill. The action of the Government requesting that £50,000 should be placed on the supplementary Estimates of 1881, to be applied in promoting assisted immigration to this country. That vote had been contained ever since, and had been passed, but, I believe, that the Government had not acted in accordance with the intentions of the House so that resolution was passed in having altered the immigration regulations in the way in which they had been so altered. The House may be in doubt, but I think that the Government are not permitted to amend the bill in the direction of increasing the number of country members such as persons eligible for immigration in the United Kingdom, and it must be evident to hon. members, from the principles which were then in force, that that was his intention and so it had to be taken into consideration in the new system under the new system, because the regulations under the new system were almost exactly similar to the regulations under the old system. But through Mr. Balfour having attempted to introduce a large number of amendments, more than six or seven, and as the Bill so limited a vote, an alteration was made. That is, members who were opposed to immigration at all in the form so worked upon the hon. Minister is told and among the first of which was that the Government notice, dated 10th August, 1857— "With a view to facilitate and encourage the introduction of immigrants by settlers and others, for employment in their own land or service, their selection by means of private agency, and in connection with the institution of holding out bounties to the President in the colony to send for their relatives or friends

His Excellency the Governor-General, with the advice

The Executive Council, has been pleased to admit the admission of the following regulations. The first part relates to the election of members of the Legislative Council and the Government. [Mr. ROBERTSON. New regulations have been issued since then.] He was aware of that fact, but he was stating the position as it was at the time of the vote of the House in 1890, which period, that is to say, in 1890, by a pure accident (in the absence of some members of the House) the vote for immigration was negatived, and the Department was about to be broken up. But feeling the great importance of the subject (the Hon. member) later on a resolution was carried in principle, which regulation was carried in an amended form—the intention of the Legislature being to leave it to the Executive system previously in force, one feature of which was that no immigrant could be nominated in England or Scotland, from pure local considerations; and that, if one of which marked B. was thus referred to a certain extent, he would be addressed to the various clerks of Petty Sessions.

"That marked B. is to be sent to the various parties are to be nominated in England, Wales, and Glasgow, and provided with passage by the Government Commissioners." This system, therefore, had been admitted and acted upon by the Government.

ROBERTSON : Never! And he would now like to know whether the regulations issued by the State of New York, in the following manner, to wit: That the said regulations be and the same are intended that the assistance was to be confined to persons nominated in the colony: These new regulations were promulgated June, 1861. — "4. Any person residing in the United States who may be desirous of intruding from the United States into the interior of the colony, will be permitted to do so on making the following deposits and subject to the conditions hereinafter named.

4. The persons eligible under these regulations are mechanics of every description, domestic servants, and all persons whose laborable hands are required for the support and bodily health, and of good moral character."

These were the conditions issued by the Anti-Slavery Committee themselves; but subsequently, on account of the fact that Mr. Hodgson, an alienation was made, and the last paragraph requested a letter of disavowal, cancelling the first condition. On the under date 18th October, 1861, the Hon. William Lushington said "I am directed to inform you that the second part of the circular as relates to Application Form No. 10, which requires that where the parties are in partnership, or in the United Kingdom, was introduced upon a misconception, and is hereby cancelled. The regulations are intended to apply only to persons nominated in the colony law." Now it seems that at the time of making the deposit, the Association had been informed of the cancellation of the associated condition.

They might, he thought, very faithfully represent the class of persons brought out under the various experiments with those that might be introduced if the advantage were made to have, as he thought, a general application. It was very well known that the immigrants now coming were the relatives of persons, serving, and that

WEDNESDAY NOVEMBER 12, 1890

The Legislative Assembly met yesterday at twenty-five minutes past 3 p. m.

In answer to questions, Ministers stated that the Registrars and Bailiffs of the several District Courts had been duly called upon to enter into the usual bonds for the right performance of their duties, and that the necessary steps would be taken to enforce the completion of these bonds; also that in consequence ence of the assault committed by Mr. Henry Weaver, J. P., upon Mr. J. H. Murray, in last March, which had become the subject of various actions in the District Courts, Mr. Weaver had been called on to show cause why he should not be removed from the Commission of the Peace, and had accordingly resigned, but that the Government saw no reason for taking any steps in regard to Mr. J. B. Bettington, J. P., and Dr. Morris, C. P. S., whose principal fault in relation to the case was that, though not acted with which had become the subject of various actions in the District Courts, Mr. Weaver had been called on to show cause why he should not be removed from the Commission of the Peace, and had accordingly responded, but that the Government saw no reason for removing any person in regard to Mr. J. B. Bettington, J. P., and Dr. Morris, C. P.'s, whose principal fault in relation to the case was that they had not acted with sufficient vigor.

 Mr. DICK moved for leave to introduce a bill to amend the District Courts Act, which it appeared from the concise description given by the hon. member, consisted principally of provisions for the relief of parties, and for the extension of the jurisdiction to $500.
 Mr. MARTIN thought such a motion should elicit an expression of opinion from the Government.

Mr. DICK moved for leave to introduce a bill to amend the District Courts Act, which it appeared from the concise description given by the hon. member, consisted principally of provisions for the relief of parties, and for the extension of the jurisdiction to £500.

Mr. MARTIN thought such a motion should elicit an expression of opinion from the Government.

Mr. COWPER thought it better to reserve his opinions upon the bill until he should be better acquainted with its provisions.

Mr. DALRYMPLE moved for a Committee to inquire into the case of Thomas Charles Bentley, a soldier in a recent rebellion. Those members who carried the motion on the ground of those extraordinary statements, particularly those involving imputations against the character of the Bencleys, put forth, in relation to this case, by the detective police

Mr. COWPER thought it better to reserve his opinions upon the bill until he should be better acquainted with its provisions.

Mr. DALGLISH moved for a committee to inquire into the case of Thomas Charles Bentley, a member of the House of Commons, who had presented a petition in relation to the case of the four ex-convicts mentioned in the preceding report. The committee satisfied the motion on the ground of the extraordinary statements, particularly those involving imputations against the character of the Bentley, and the fact that the petition was presented by the ex-convicts, in relation to this case, by the detective police, and that the petition was signed by the ex-convicts, and endorsed by the Colonial Secretary from his place in the Assembly, who had moreover invited hon. members to move for a committee of inquiry.

Mr. COWPER had not promised to vote for a committee, but had no objection to one if the majority considered it. Where was this sort of interference on the part of the Legislature with matters not within their province to end?

Mr. COWPER had not promised to vote for a committee of inquiry, but had no objection to one if the majority insisted it. Where was this sort of interference on the part of the Legislature with matters not within their province to end?

Mr. HARRIS, thinking there had been quite enough of this case, would oppose the motion.

Mr. MORRIS supported the motion as a means of ascertaining that the Bentleys were innocent of the charges against them. He said that the police had promulgated a number of statements.

Mr. LANG held that the public would be far from satisfied if the House were to refuse inquiry into this mysterious case.

Mr. WILSON would vote for the motion on account of the course taken by the police and by the Government.

Mr. MORRIS supported the motion as a means of showing that the soldiers were innocent of the charges against them, and that the police had pronounced a number of false statements.

Dr. LANG held that the public would be far from satisfied if the House were to refuse inquiry into this mysterious case.

Dr. WILSON would vote for the motion on account of the course taken by the police and by the Government in the matter.

Mr. LEARY, admitting that, as a general rule, this was not a proper case for legislative interference, would support the motion, with a view to inquiry into the conduct of the police.

Mr. DALGLISH having replied, the motion was carried by 15 to 14.

Mr. MORRIS moved a resolution purporting that the House should address the Governor with a view to ment in the matter.

Mr. LEARY, admitting that, as a general rule, this would not be a proper case for legislative interference, would support the motion, with a view to inquiry into the conduct of the police.

Mr. DALGLISH having replied, the motion was carried by 15 to 14.

Mr. MORRIS moved a resolution purporting that the House should address the Governor with a view to placing on the Estimates a sum, not exceeding £150,000, in aid of the cost of the trial of James Beatty for infanticide, in consequence of the serious and irreparable injury suffered in the performance of his duties. A honorable member explained that Mr. Beatty had been seriously injured, so as probably to render him incapable of life, by having come in contact with some sulphuric acid transmitted from Sydney, via Melbourne, for the use of the electric telegraph—the accident having, it appeared, been caused by the acid having been badly packed.

Mr. ANOLD, not exceeding 15000, was of compensation to Mr. James Beatty for injury suffered in the performance of his duties. A respectable member explained that Mr. Beatty had been seriously injured, so as probably to render him incapable for life, by having come in contact with some sulphuric acid transmitted from Sydney, via Melbourne, for the use of the electric telegraph—the accident having, it appeared, been caused by the acid having been badly packed.

Mr. ANOLD opposed the motion. Mr. Beatty had already been more liberally dealt with than was usual in similar cases. He had been paid his full salary for nine months while absent from his duties in consequence of the accident. There was, moreover, some doubt whether the accident had not been in some degree owing to Mr. Beatty's own carelessness.

Mr. LUSH, Mr. FRANKLAND opposed; Mr. DEAN, Mr. LUSH, Mr. MARTIN, Mr. PUGHMAN, Mr. HOSKIN, Mr. NIXON, Mr. LEACH, and Mr. DALGLISH supported the motion.

Mr. ANNOLD opposed the motion. Mr. Beatty had already been more liberally dealt with than was usual in similar cases. He had been paid his full salary for twelve months while absent from his duties in consequence of the accident. There was, moreover, some doubt whether the accident had not been in some degree owing to Mr. Beatty's own carelessness. Mr. MORRIS and Mr. FRANKS opposed the motion. Mr. MORRIS said that he had known Mr. MORRIANT, Mr. MARTIN, Mr. PUDWORTH, Mr. WILSON, Mr. LEARY, and Mr. DALGLISH supported the motion; which, after a few words in reply from Mr. MORRIS, was negatived by 20 to 18. Mr. DALGLISH postponed for a fortnight the motion for a vote on the question of the propriety of giving him his name having reference to the conduct of Mr. B. B. Bestington and Dr. Morris, as connected with the assault upon Mr. Murray. Mr. ROTTON withdrew the motion in his name for the adoption of the report of the committee; in the case of Charles Phillips Lawrence.

Mr. DUNGAN postponed for a fortnight the motion for the adoption of the report of the committee on the case of Charles Phillips Lawrence.

Mr. MORRIS moved a resolution to the effect that persons applying for assistance for intending immigrants out of the funds voted for that purpose, should be required to give some name such immigrants bore in the neighborhood. The hon. member argued that the resolutions under which this system of nomination of immigrants had been established was in violation of the intention of the House in voting the funds in question, and that to permit employers to send for such servants as they required, would lead to the introduction of a more suitable class of immigrants.

Mr. ROBERTSON doubted the expediency of applying the funds to the purpose of supplying employers with labour, but insisted that, if these funds were to be so applied, they should at least not be expended in introducing servants, but in bringing out persons to whom employers would care for them, and attend to their moral welfare on arrival.

Mr. DALHOUSIE concurred in the views of the Secretary.

Mr. ROBERTSON doubted the expediency of applying public funds to the purpose of supplying employers with labour, but insisted that, if these funds were so applied, they should at least not be expended in introducing servants, but in bringing out persons to whom employers would care for them, and attend to their moral welfare on arrival.

Mr. DALHOUSIE concurred in the views of the Secretary for Lands.

Mr. HALL expressed his disapproval of the regulation making examination in the colony incumbent, and maintained that it might be easily evaded.

Mr. DICKSON spoke in favour of Mr. ALLEN and Mr. STEWART against the motion. Mr. HOSKINS declared that the resolution before the House favoured monopoly.

Mr. DICKSON spoke in favour of Mr. ALLEN and Mr. STEWART against the motion. Mr. HOSKINS demurred that the resolution before the House favoured monopoly.

Dr. LANG said the grand question for the House was the colonisation of the country, which "free selection," and the lecturers in England, had failed to effect. He should vote for the resolution.

Mr. W. FORSTER censured the Secretary for Lands and his treatment of Mr. Logan, and insisted that the system of nomination in the colony was calculated to give a monopoly of the funds voted to certain persons already settled in the colony, and to their friends.

Mr. RAFFER supported the resolution.

Mr. W. FOSTER censured the Secretary for Land Office for his treatment of Mr. Logan, and insisted that the system of nomination in the colony was calculated to give a monopoly of the funds voted to certain persons already settled in the colony, and to their friends. Mr. RAFFER opposed the resolution. Mr. DICK supported it on the ground that it was most consistent with the regulations themselves, and with the best mode of doing good. Mr. HARRIS, in giving his opinion that the House, in voting money for immigration, intended the immigrants to be nominated by their friends in the colony. He should, therefore, vote against the motion. Mr. ROTTER having briefly replied, the motion was carried by 18 to 14. This route makes a rough parallel with WALKER's outward route. At one point, however, the two lines converge very closely, indeed WALKER's tracks were met with. This was near the head of the Flinders. The proximity of the two routes at this point was interesting as settling a matter that was formerly

To suggestion of others that if that were the case, BURKE must have crossed it, Mr. WALKER replied that BURKE did cross it, and he specified one of the creeks marked on BURKE's route as identical with the Barkly. It is pretty clear, however, now, that on this point WALKER has made a wrong guess, though with the information open to him at the time it was a very plausible one. A glance at the map containing LANDSBOROUGH's route will show that the Barkly is tributary of the Flinders, and that the Caracore, into which the natives said that the discharged is the Gulf of Carpentaria, and not the Central Salt Lake.

The River Leichhardt runs between the Flinders and the Flinders. Its course has still to be traced. The land on the lower part of the Flinders is a very fertile one, and the best of LANDSEBOROUGH speaks of as much, and the best near the Gulf. M'KINLAY struck this river nearly in its lower reaches, but he did not find it an important-looking stream. The new country must, of course, be stocked from the South. Besides the route by the Warrego, along which LANDSDORF recommended, there is a route by the Paroo, a river running parallel with the Warrego into the Darling, and which has been explored by rumour. The country

The new country must, of course, be stocked from the South. Besides the route by the Warrego, along which LANDSDOWNKOP runs around, there is a route by the Paroo, a river running parallel with the Warrego into the Darling, and which has been explored by runnunt. The country along this river is said to be good. Much has been already taken up, and some has changed hands at a premium.
We are not aware, however, that anyone has yet struck a course from the head of the Paroo to the Barcoo. But the intervening distance is not very great. Mr. NAILSON has also marked out a route from Mount Rankine, on the Darling, to Cooper's Creek, which, from the description he gives it of, must be very far prefer-

THE ORPHEUSIST SOCIETY'S CONCERT.—The first extra concert of the season will be given by the Orpheusist Society this evening, in the new hall of the School of Art and Music, at eight o'clock. The programme is a highly interesting one, and includes a selection from Handel's oratorio of "Israel in Egypt," some admired operatic music and several new songs. The vocal portion of the programme will be executed by Madame Sara Flower, Madame Rose Harris, Miss Bridget, Miss Maud, Miss Mabel, Miss Susannah and others. The instrumental portion is to be sustained by professors and amateurs of acknowledged talent. Conductor, Mr. D. Gallen. Concert to commence at eight o'clock.

MARYMARIE WARD.—A meeting of the friends of Mr. Alexander Moore, in his candidature for the office of Mayor of the City of New York, was held at the residence of Mrs. J. H. Smith, on Monday evening, the 10th inst. The meeting was held at the residence of Mrs. J. H. Smith, on Monday evening, the 10th inst. The meeting was held at the residence of Mrs. J. H. Smith, on Monday evening, the 10th inst.

The Travellers' Rest Inn, corner of Castle street and Market streets, yesterday evening. The attendance was numerous, and it was found that the meeting had been well advertised; full; Mr. Allerman M-Inch occupied the chair. After reading the advertisement by which the meeting was convened, the chairman rose up upon Mr. R. H. Ingham's motion, and after making some preliminary remarks, proceeded to touch upon several questions affecting the interests of the citizens—the sewerage, the city enlargement, the city debt, the city water supply, and the city fire department. He maintained that, as the sewerage debt was incurred by an Executive over whom the citizens have no control, they should not be required to pay it from general revenue. With regard to taxation he feared he should not be able to do much in the way of lightening it. It was his opinion that the city should endeavor to get its money expended as economically as possible. He should advocate surface drainage for the back lanes and alleys, and the removal of the old cesspools, as being the best purpose of cleaning these lanes. He thought a plentiful supply of water at a cheap rate could and should be got. Anything less than a good water supply would be a failure of the city.

He concluded the Government ought to force the wardens of the Circular Quay, and hand it over to the city, and he thought, moreover, that the Government ought to force the wardens of the Circular Quay to the same as a private individual, or they should give the city a handsome endowment of not less than £20,000. Referring to the wardens of the Circular Quay, he said that the people should hold and enforce their right to it. It would not be of any pecuniary advantage to the city to have the wardens of the Circular Quay, and he thought the Government ought to force the wardens of the Circular Quay to the same as a private individual, or they should give the city a handsome endowment of not less than £20,000. THE WEATHER.—In Sydney, yesterday, the heat was very oppressive, and the atmosphere murky in the extreme. At 6 p.m., however, there was a little shower, accompanied by a strong wind from the south-west, which cleared away with showers which lasted till about five o'clock, after which at two a.m. this morning a rather heavy hailstorm, with strong wind from the north-east, broke over the city, but the rain did not fall for more than twenty minutes.

A STEALING IN A DWELLING.—On Sunday evening the residence of Mr. Parker, in Foveaux-street, Surry Hills, was broken open by burglars, who carried off a quantity of silver and jewellery of the value of £100 or thereabouts. But-Inspector Harrison received information of the robbery, and he sent a party of his men to the house early this morning, where they found several of the missing articles. He took into custody the persons he found in the house yesterday afternoon, and he has since been at the Bench, but the necessary evidence not being ready, they were remanded.

THE PRINCE OF WALES' BIRTHDAY.—To-day being the day appointed in celebration of the birthday of the Prince of Wales, was observed as a holiday in Maitland. Amusement was given at the theatre, and the streets were crowded with people. There were many booths and stalls, private pic-nic stores and tents, by land and water, being the order of the day. A grand aquatic exhibition was given at the baths, and a large number of City of Newcastle, under the auspices of the Very Rev. Dean O'Connell, with the extra accommodation afforded by the Newcastle Hotel, came down to the river to visit Newcastle and intermediate places, being the amount of public opportunity for excursionists, were nevertheless not able to come away before the close of the town itself, so as to make it—with its closed shape and size. These trees look very much as if they were the same as those which grow in the West, and greater by the absence of everything in the shape of succulent in the leaves. If we except one blast from the rain, the day was a fine one, and the people who were staying en route for Newswale. The day throughout was a picked one for the occasion, being mild and sunny, with a light breeze, and the clouds being all but obscured by light, fleecy clouds, which were not dark enough in complexion to warrant any fears or hopes of rain.

CULTIVATION OF SUGAR IN THE HUNTER RIVER DISTRICT.—The Halford Mercury of yesterday states that the Halford Sugar Company has been issued in the Hunter district, to be called the Halford Sugar Company. The directors (all that journal) contemplate, in the first instance, planting about fifty acres of cane, on rented land, and commencing operations in the first season in such a manner as to involve as little expenditure as possible, with the endeavour to prove to the people of the district the practicability of growing both the cane and the sugar. The undertaking has already a considerable number of supporters, and the judicious policy adopted at the outset is likely to ensure the success of the project as to start the project under encouraging auspices. It is to be regretted that the Halford Mercury does not state how many of the shareholders are manufacturers, will yield such returns, will engage before the year is over, and to place the character of the project as a crop, upon so decided a footing as to warrant agriculturalists in the district cultivating so extensively.

THE HALFORD SUGAR SOCIETY.—Writing on the 30th ultimo, the Halford Mercury states that the Halford Sugar Society, a Comacomb correspondent of the Halford Mercury, the most reckless and unwarrantable set was committed yesterday to the Halford Mercury, the most reckless and unwarrantable set was committed yesterday to the Halford Mercury, the most reckless and unwarrantable set was committed yesterday to the Halford Mercury.

THE PRINCE OF WALES MAGNANIMITY—
PARDON OF PRISONERS.
On the occasion of the Prince of Wales attaining his majority, his Excellency the Governor has, on the advice of Mr. Cowper, exercised the royal prerogative of pardoning in favour of twenty-five prisoners, at present undergoing sentences at Cockspur or in Darlinghurst or Parramatta. The names of the prisoners, who are now incarcerated in the Convict Classification Board, was made of those who had served three-fourths of their whole sentences without having been subjected to punishment for misbehaviour during the period. The men whose sentences were commuted were ranged in the following order:—The first of the men were pardoned until arrangements had been made for their departure to their several districts.

CLARENCE TOWN.
[FROM A CORRESPONDENT.]

Wheat building, capable of accommodating 100 persons, having been prepared for the worship of God and a service of prayer, the following services were held in connection with the opening of it, on Tuesday, the 1st instant. In the morning, at eleven o'clock, the Rev. A. W. Murray preached. In the afternoon, the building having been opened to the public, the following services were held. The nature Sunday school—were regaled with tea and cake. After their dispersion, the tables were surrounded by the friends, who partook of an excellent tea. The rain, which had threatened to annoy the assembly, was so light that the building was so numerous to crowd the building. In the forenoon, and the space round the door without. Mr. C. F. Holmes, of Oakdale, having been moved into the chair, the Rev. Charles Carter, Baptist minister, was called upon his prospects of success. Address were then delivered by the Revs. J. B. McCure, R. Monaghan, A. W. Murray, and E. Henderson. Baptist ministers. A handsome donation of $100 was made by Sydney. The address was made by the chairman, was placed in the hands of the minister. After a vote of thanks to the chairman, the meeting closed.

GLENNVILLE.—A public tea meeting was held in the above-named place on Wednesday, 8th instant, in connection with the settlement of the Rev. Charles Carter, at the residence of the Rev. J. B. McCure. The meeting was a Sunday-school, and numbering forty-two, were first supplied with tea. The Episcopal Church, which was kindly opened for the occasion, and well supplied with music. The Rev. Charles Carter, at the request of the committee, was warmly and well arranged for the meeting. At half past six the building was crowded, upwards of 120 persons being present. The Rev. Charles Carter occupied the chair. Address were delivered by the Revs. E. Henderson, Charles Carter, R. Monaghan, J. B. McCure, and A. W. Murray. Several anthems were sung by the choir.

HINTON.—A public meeting was held in the Baptist chapel in the above-mentioned town, on Thursday, the 10th inst., for the purpose of settling the Rev. E. Henderson, the pastor of the church, occupied the chair, and introduced the ministers from Sydney, who had been visiting Clarence Town and the district. The Rev. A. W. Murray addressed the numerous meeting on the subject of Revival of Religion in a most impressive manner. The Rev. H. Meneyment gave an account of the settlement of Rev. Charles Cater, at Clarence Town. The Rev. J. B. McCure afterwards addressed the meeting, at some length, on the necessity of the work of the Holy Spirit in conversion.

SOUTH AFRICA

[illegible][illegible]

Tombu chief, assembled the whole of his army on the 8th of this month, for the purpose of making an onslaught the Umbindahs—being determined, it is said, to effect vengeance before he returned home. They divided his men into three parties, and sent them to the hills to come from different directions. For some days, however, they did nothing, and it was thought that they would turn back without accomplishing their object. A prisoner was said, actually did not, however, to have been taken, which, he appears to have entered, on this occasion, into an alliance with the Pondas under Danna. These acted in concert with the Umbindahs, and they were met, and vanquished upon Umbindah's country, and drove him and his people before them like sheep, seizing upon what spoil they could find in the shape of fowls and cattle. It is said they made a clean sweep, killed all the fowls and cattle, and took all into their hands, burnt every kraal, and carried off vast quantities of food. Danna's people came from one direction, and the Umbindahs from another, and the force of an army entering from the other side in four directions altogether presenting a most formidable array, to which the Pondas were unable to resist, and were obliged to flee. Thus the poor fellow Umbindah, who, after many brave and successful, was completely baffled and driven, and rendered strength by his enemies; and thinking, that he had been deceived, he was not long in the matter part of valour, he lost a retreat just in time to save his people from utter destruction, and his cattle and fowls were all lost. He has, it is said, fled into the mountain which runs between the aria and Basuto land, and as he dare not return to the country from which he has been driven, his only chance at them, and the possession of oxen which cannot be quickly driven on long journeys like camels or horses, besides many of them having bought land, has given them such a stake in the country that they will fear or find war grow distasteful to them."

still in session. The proceedings were, however, drawing to a close, the Colonial Secretary having intimated that the Supplementary Estimate 1963 would be submitted some weeks previously to the departure of the mail, would be the business the Government intended going on with. The Supplementary Estimate 1963 would be the first to be proposed increase to the salaries of the Executive Council. The estimated expenditure for 1963 is £855,174.6d., the total actual expenditure for 1961 was £94,676.10s. 6d. and for 1962 £1,016,919.10s. 6d. The above are exclusive of the amount reserved by charter for the Government under which for 1961 was £287,500, and the same for 1962. The estimated expenditure for 1963 is £1,024,474.11s. 6d. and for 1962 £1,016,919.10s. 6d. In 1960, £223,241.10s. 6d. was added to the estimate for 1963, the interest on loan for harbour works for 1963, making a grand total estimate for 1963 of £1,016,919.10s. 6d. The estimate for 1961 was £94,676.10s. 6d., and for 1962 £1,016,919.10s. 6d., against 1963 £1,024,474.11s. 6d., and £77,291.10s. 6d. for 1960. The 1962 estimate was £1,016,919.10s. 6d. The estimate for 1963 was still under discussion.

MELBURN STOCK REPORTS.

Fat Cattle.—About 1200 head were on hand, the quality of which throughout was good, many lots being exceedingly prime. The market was quiet, and the price of the cattle was about steady; it was said that quality of the cattle be taken into account, the following bullocks fetched from £7 to £8, a few very prime £9 to £10.

Fat Sheep.—This market has been quite over-stocked; it is not so much the quality of the sheep as the quantity, and a decline all round of 1s per head may be expected. The best wethers in wool fetched 1s 10d to 17s; best ditto, from 16s to 17s; inferior ditto, from 15s to 16s; second ditto, from 14s to 15s.

Rice Stock.—A fair inquiry for good store cattle, from the 10s to 12s; inferior ditto, from 8s to 10s. The quality of the cattle is generally excellent, considerable transactions are being effected in the sheep.

Melbourne, 25th November.

[DALNACRA, CAMPBELL, AND CO.]

Fat Cattle.—Since our last report the supplies have continued in excess of the consumption, and there has been a further decline in the price of the cattle. The quality of the cattle is generally good, the following bullocks, from £5 10s to £7 10s; second ditto, from £5 to £6 15s; inferior ditto, at from 4s upwards. Cows in the 11s to 12s; best ditto, from 10s to 11s; second ditto, from 9s to 10s; inferior ditto, from 8s to 9s.

Fat Sheep.—This class of stock has also been supplied in excess of the consumption, and the price has been kept up by graziers, taking second to inferior wethers only. The quality of the stock is generally good, the following wethers, from 11s to 12s; superior shorn wethers, from 10s to 11s; second ditto, from 9s to 10s 6d. None inferior to 8s 6d.

Store Cattle.—Quotations unaltered; first-class bullocks, from 10s to 12s; second ditto, from 9s to 10s; inferior ditto, from 8s to 9s.

Store Sheep.—Young ewes still in good demand, and likely to take the market. The following quotations:—Demand, shorn, from 10s to 12s; full-mouthed ditto, from 8s to 10s. Wethers are required for, but very few have been observed at the price named, viz., from 8s to 10s for 4, 5, and 6 tooth sheep.

WATTLEBUSH FIRE.—We have received information of the occurrence of a fearful bush fire on the Poverty Foot Road. Two travellers started on their journey for the Poverty Foot Road, on Sunday evening last, at about 6 o'clock, and although they observed a demand on the morning, they did not anticipate there would be any danger in travelling along the road. They had, however, proceeded about 10 miles, when they observed a small fire, which was raging and roaring furiously. Scarcely were they under impression of pursuing their journey, they turned their horses' heads homewards again, but fancy the terror of the moment, they did not observe the flames, which reached that portion of the road which they had just passed on account of a sharp bend which the road took at that point. They then turned their heads back, and observed a fire, which roared like a hurricane, the flames attaining the tops of the tallest trees. Perceiving the awful danger of their position, they could not delay a moment, and, without stopping to take any other measures, they descended a dangerously precipitous mountain on the Dan Creek Range, through a portion of the burning grass, and, after a most perilous descent, they were enabled to reach the safety of their lives. Inter-field Chronicle, November 6.
